

Watercolor Reflections

with Katie Stocks

Katie Stocks is a retired primary school teacher with grounding in lesson design and planning. In her 2nd career, she has loved teaching watercolor to adults at LCC and Emerald Art Center. Katie values experimentation, questions, and an open mind, along with the practice of being gentle with yourself.

With Lessons focusing on reflections in crystal glass, crystal rocks, water, and windows, we will focus on how light reflects off of objects. We'll look at the geometry of refraction to aid our drawings that we turn into paintings filled with light. These new projects will be presented in a supportive environment. Class time will involve demonstration, practice, questions, and positive critiques of the work. Beginner and intermediate level painters are encouraged to have basic skills in brushwork and creating washes. Register now, as this is a popular class.
